CANTEEN KITCHEN VISIT SCHEDULED

To Be at Pleasant Township School Wednesday.

The Red Cross Mobile Canteen kitchen, sponsored by the Ohio Fuel Gas Co. and operated through the local county chapters of the Red Cross in the territory served by the company, will come to Marion county Wednesday for a canteen demonstration at the Pleasant Township school.

Approximately 250 persons will be served by a Red Cross Canteen unit under the direction of Mrs. Christine Cook, Marion County home demonstration agent. The canteen unit, made up of 10 women who have completed a course in volunteer work, will serve the pupils at noon.

The kitchen is one of two units owned by the company and is subject to call at any time for emergency feedings. Set up for feeding operations the trailer space of the Red Cross Mobile Canteen kitchen is expanded through the use of a large tent. If necessary the kitchen can operate independent of regular source of gas, light and water. Eating utensils for 400 are carried in the kitchen, and through dishwashing facilities, the number to be fed could be multiplied. It is estimated that each kitchen would handle the serving of hot food to 1,500 persons if an emergency demanded it.

ARTCRAFT SHOP NOW IN OPERATION AT Y

Younger Boys To Get Training in Manual Arts.

Younger members of the Y. M. C. A. will be given a chance to learn manual art this year, Marion Metzger, boys' program director for the Y announced today.

The Y. M. C. A. industrial artcraft shop has been opened to all members of the Friendly Indian and Pioneer clubs. The shop has not been in use for over two years and now because of the shortage of adequate equipment, only the younger boys will be permitted to work there.

The shop is open three days a week but in the future may be used even longer. When more equipment is obtained, adults probably will be doing work in the shop.

George Flatman of the Marion Reserve Power Co. is in charge of procuring tools and other needed materials and in the general policies of the working in the shop. Reverend O. T. Swigart is the supervisor of the boys in the shop.

PLAN DRAFT BOARDS IN OHIO'S 3 PRISONS

Eligible Inmates Will Be Inducted on Release.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, March 30 — Welfare Director Charles L. Sherwood said yesterday selective service boards would be established in three Ohio penal institutions shortly at the direction of Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, federal draft director.

Sherwood said the process would permit immediate induction of eligible inmates immediately upon the effective date of their parole release provided the commanding general of the Fifth service command waived the inmate's probationary waiting period.

Institutions where boards will be set up are Ohio penitentiary, London prison farm and Mansfield reformatory.

Under present regulations, a released inmate must return to his home for a 30 or 90 day probationary period, depending upon whether he is a minor or major offender, Sherwood said.

"That period actually is a period of demoralization rather than of rehabilitation, because the parolee cannot obtain employment for such a brief time," Sherwood said.

In each institution, the board will be made up of one institutional official and two public members, one of whom should have previously served on a local draft board, the director said.

Should the inmate fail to pass his examination, he goes free but under parole supervision.

American Bombers Hit Japs at Buin, Kahili

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 30 — American bombers attacking Japanese positions at Buin and Kahili scored hits on a runway and protected dispersal areas, the Navy said yesterday, then returned safely to their base.

The text of the Navy's communique, No. 328, telling of raids against the two enemy positions on Bougainville island, 300 miles northwest of Guadalcanal, follows:

"South Pacific. (All dates are east longitude)

"1. On March 29th:

"(a) During the morning, Army Flying Fortresses (Boeing B-17) attacked Japanese positions at Buin and Kahili in the Shortland Island area. Hits were scored on revetments and a runway.

"(b) All United States planes returned."

CHARGES IGNORED

CONTRIBUTION OF NAVY WEAPONS COME SLOWLY

Another Call Goes Out from Legion Committee.

Response to the drive for weapons for the Navy being made by the American Legion has not been good, E. M. Breithaupt, chairman of the committee in charge of the drive, announced today.

All types of guns, regardless of their condition, are wanted by the committee, Mr. Breithaupt said. The guns will be sent to Toledo where they will be repaired and sent to stations where they are most needed.

Anyone having any weapons to donate to the drive are requested to notify Mr. Breithaupt or the other members of the committee, T. E. Kinnear and Clyde Porterfield, and they will call for the guns.

Number of Children in Family Declines

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 30—The number of young children in the average American family declined in the 1930-40 decade, the census bureau said yesterday in a report that did not take into consideration the record 1942 birth rate.

The bureau said 1940 statistics showed nearly half the 35,100,000 families in the United States had no children under 18 years of age, while only 15 per cent had three or more children.

The stork had his busiest year in the nation's history last year, but the birth rate—about 21 per 1,000 population—nevertheless is below the rate of about 25 per 1,000 population registered in the last World war.

"The declining number of young children in the average family is shown," the bureau said, "by the fact that 65.9 per cent of the families in 1940 had no children under 10 years old as compared with 58.8 per cent in 1930.

"Families with three or more children under 10 years old represented 6.4 per cent of all families in 1940 as compared with 10.2 per cent in 1930."

WAGE-HOUR INDICTMENT

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, March 30 — A federal grand jury returned a 15-count indictment charging wage-hour act violations against the P. Milliron Transfer & Storage Co., of East Liverpool, its president-general manager, Peter Milliron, and Supt. Frank Mitcheson, the labor department's wage-hour division reported. The charges include failure to pay the minimum 30 cents an hour to some of the firm's 35 employes.

Gardening Guide—7—

Early Planting Pays Dividends

Associated Press Features

The garden general should plan to open his Victory Garden campaign the moment he is sure Old Man Weather has expended his last devastating round of spring ammunitioin—frost.

The veteran gardener in every neighborhood, or the seedsman, knows the safe planting dates.

This varies widely in the United States but the United States department of agriculture has collected planting information for each locality over a long period of years. From this data, your county agent or seedsman knows the average date, in your locality, of spring's last frost.

Radishes, potatoes, lettuce, and peas are among the first crops that can go into the ground. A little cool weather doesn't harm them.

Plan a succession of vegetables so that the garden will keep the table supplied with fresh produce throughout the summer.

Lima beans, pole snap beans, chard and tomatoes will bear for a long season. In the south, fall collards, kale, spinach and turnips planted in late summer remain usable after frost.

Other garden plantings are exhausted before the growing season ends and the space they occupy can be used for other crops.

To get the most out of the soil, crops should be rotated. That is, radishes shouldn't be planted in the same soil where the first crop of radishes grew. Green beans, however, is a good crop to follow radishes.

Seedsmen and county agricultural agents will recommend rotation plans for their localities.

BRICKER ACTS TO SPEED BILLS

Confers with Leaders of Assembly To Hasten Action.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, March 30 — Gov. John W. Bricker conferred with Republican leaders of the Ohio house and senate last night in an effort to iron out problems which have been slowing up the session.

It could not be learned what he is reported to have discussed.

Appropriations for the schools should not exceed the $97,000,000 proposed in the budget for the biennium;

That some legislation should be enacted to simplify the present method of computing utility rates;

That the .65 per cent utilities excise tax should be extended to April 30, 1945, instead of to Dec. 31, 1944, as proposed by the senate taxation committee;

That a house bill authorizing the state highway director to fix speed limits was inadvisable, and

That proposals for some form of rationing liquor should be considered seriously (a bill empowering the state liquor director to ration at his discretion has been passed by the house and recommended for passage in the senate.)

School Aid

As for school funds, the administration's financial experts showed how the schools could be given an additional $2,100,000 for 1943-44 operating needs without exceeding the budgetary limit.

A bill authorizing the state utilities commission, for rate-making purposes, to consider a company's original investment, the cost of reproducing the property and any other essential elements likely will be introduced by the administration.

The Republican leaders and the governor did not discuss the administration's bill to repeal the sales tax on food, which was passed by the senate several weeks ago and is now sidetracked in the house, or the controversial female labor bill, which is tied up in the senate.

Another conference was to be held today, however.

As the senate reconvened today there were prospects that the bill to create a judges' retirement system, defeated last week, would be reconsidered and passed. Proponents said they had mustered more than the 17 votes needed for passage.

Highway Bill

The senate last night completed enactment of legislation under which the highway director can cooperate with the federal government in constructing access roads to war plants and military reservations not on the state highway system.

The house did not reach a vote on the bill abolishing the fees received by county commissioners for inspecting ditches. It did approve and send to the senate a bill fixing a minimum weight of 16 ounces for bakery bread and legalizing the operation of bakeries now located in cellars and basements.

Mr. Carey, who is 70 years old, was found on the street, suffering from fatigue and cold, by Charles Simpson, garage owner, as he was preparing to close his shop. Names given to Mr. Simpson by Mr. Carey led to telephone communication with his family who drove to Mt. Victory after him. He apparently suffered no ill effects from his journey.

Martel Couple Married 50 Years Celebrate Anniversary in Arizona

MR. AND MRS. MELVIN A. CAMPBELL

A family gathering today at the home of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Paul S. Campbell of Route 1, Gilbert, Ariz., and a dinner tonight at the El Portal Hotel at Mesa, Ariz., will be in celebration of the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin A. Campbell of Martel.

Joining them for the occasion will be their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Foster and children John, Mary, James, Susanne, Martha and Joel, Saraellen and Berthabeth Campbell, children of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Campbell, and Mrs. Paul Campbell's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Andrews and children, Lawrence and Lowell of Phoenix, Ariz., former residents of Marion.

In West Since January

The celebrants, with Mr. and Mrs. Foster and family, went to Arizona early in January this year. They plan to spend the next two months at the home of their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Campbell, and with Mr. and Mrs. Foster whose home is in Tucson, Ariz., where Mr. Foster is employed as an industrial engineer with the Consolidated Aircraft Corp.

More than 100 guests attended the ceremony of half a century ago at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Ellen Crissinger, one mile north of Martel on the evening of March 30, 1893. The attendants were Marie Kelly Campbell, now Mrs. M. W. Campbell of near Bucyrus, and Charles Campbell, deceased. The couple went to housekeeping on the Campbell farm near Caledonia where they resided for 12 years and where their two children were born. After making their home in Trumbull county for five years they returned to Morrow county, purchasing a farm three miles north of Mt. Gilead on the Iberia road where they made their home for 26 years. In 1937 they moved to Mrs. Campbell's childhood home and the one in which they were married, one mile north of Martel.

Mrs. Campbell before her marriage was Miss Molly Crissinger, one of six children born to Henry and Ellen Jones Crissinger. She was born May 25, 1874.

Born Near Caledonia

Melvin Aye Campbell was born March, 8, 1867, near Caledonia. His parents were John Nelson Campbell and Maria Aye Campbell who lived for many years at 783 East Center street. Mrs. Campbell has one living sister, Mrs. Marshall McKinstry of 765 South Prospect street, and Mr. Campbell, also one of a family of six children, has two sisters, Miss Corabel Campbell of 783 East Center street and Mrs. Olive Dunham of Cardington, and two brothers, M. W. Campbell of Bucyrus, and H. Ray Campbell of Waynoka, Okla., living. Mrs. Lura Aye Myers of near Claridon is an aunt of Mr. Campbell and the only living relative of the older generation. They have nine grandchildren, eight living in Arizona and Miss Jean Campbell of Galion. Their son, Paul S. Campbell, is an aircraft mechanic at Williams Field near Phoenix, Ariz. With Mrs. Campbell he has made his home in Arizona since 1940. Mr. and Mrs. Foster and family formerly lived at 1067 East Center street.

Mr. and Mrs. Campbell have, throughout their lives, been active in church and Sunday school work. They are members of the Martel Methodist church and the Martel grange. Mrs. Campbell is a member of the Rebekah class of Martel.

Enroute to Arizona where the celebrants now reside, the Foster family sought a change of climate because of the health of one of the Foster children, they visited Capt. and Mrs. H. B. Brown of 1325 Pershing Dr., El Paso, Texas, and Mr. Campbell's brother H. Ray Campbell of Waynoka, Okla. Mrs. Brown, a niece of Mr. Campbell formerly was Miss Jeanette Bebout of Marion.

The flag of Argentina consists of three horizontal bars of equal width of sky blue, white, and sky blue, with a figure of the sun in the center.

● Everybody has extra responsibilities in wartime—and that includes Greyhound. It is all-important today that every bus be used when and where it will do the most to help the war effort. You can help by timing your travel right — by taking trips in the early Spring when travel is lighter, rather than in the mid-summer rush period. You can aid by choosing mid-week rather than week-end days. You can aid still further by choosing from Greyhound's many daily schedules the buses on which more seats are usually available —and Greyhound will gladly tell you which these schedules are.

Buses will serve you better if, in addition to timing your trip right, you get tickets and information in advance, take along less baggage than usual, and accept wartime changes and slight inconveniences with a smile!

LABOR UNITY ASKED BY MADAME CHIANG

Addresses California Unionists as "Fellow Workers."

By The Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO, March 30—Mme Chiang Kai-shek, in an appeal for labor cooperation and increased production, enrolled America's working men and women today as "fellow workers" with herself in the cause of victory.

The wife of China's leader appeared last night for an unscheduled talk before a labor gathering and heard a thunderous "yes, yes" interrupt her determined declaration: "You want to win this war!"

Addressing 2,000 CIO, AFL and railroad brotherhood members who jammed the CIO hall for a meeting called on brief notice, Mme. Chiang started by saying, simply, "Fellow Workers." Only a few hours before she had greeted hundreds of society, military, diplomatic and business leaders at an elaborate reception.

"When I called you 'fellow workers'," Mme. Chiang told the labor meeting, "I meant it because I know I am speaking to a cross section of all labor in America, both men and women. What I am going to say to you is meant for every one of the laborers in America."

"Because my own people have suffered and bled for six long years I have a message which I would like to bring you," she said. "And that is: unity is strength."

The workers' task, Mme. Chiang declared, "is not one whit less important than that of the fighting forces at the front, you must exert every ounce of your energy to cooperate to help win this war.

"Production must increase. We must let no dissension, no difference of opinion come between us because if we do we will be defeated."

We've all got to "dig in" on the Food Front

IN our national emergency transportation space is precious. Every foot of space that's saved means just that much more room for vital materials of war. So the production of food near centers of consumption has taken on national importance.

You, the American people, can "dig in" and help by starting Victory Gardens now, and by seeing to it that they are really productive.

You can help your country, you can help the railroads, and you can also help yourself by cutting down your food bills and making your ration stamps go further.

Victory Gardens can make more food available for military needs and foreign shipments. And they can make a major contribution to the "battle of transportation." Our patriotic gardeners will have many of their fresh vegetable needs satisfied right from their own backyards!

We, the railroads, will go on "digging in" by moving, fast and efficiently, the incredible quantities of food needed for our armed services, for our allies, for lend-lease shipments, and for millions on the home front.

What's more, we'll keep on moving the equipment, tools, fertilizer, and other supplies our hard-pressed farmers need to meet the staggering farm quotas for 1943.

And we'll continue to get the greatest possible service out of every piece of railroad equipment—through careful management and the splendid cooperation of railroad workers and shippers.

It's up to you and to us. Let's all "dig in."

Morale Medicine

One of the officers [illegible] Gen. George S. Patton, [illegible] command of the [illegible] Whatever name [illegible] American morale at this moment can be cured by the kind of medicine he prefers.

Gen. Patton's nickname is "Blood and Guts" or to be exact "Old Blood and Guts." He is 57, a veteran cavalryman who has been practicing with tanks for a quarter of a century and is ranked as the leading expert in tank warfare. The general also is referred to by his men as "The Green Hornet." He believes in commanders who fight at the head of their troops; he fights that way. He doesn't believe in fancy dress uniforms and formality. He is thorough, but is not noted for caution. His idea of war is to carry the offensive to the enemy so furiously and incessantly that the enemy has no time to strike back. That's the way he thinks the Axis can be routed out of Africa. Assault is his creed. His ambition, he says, is to meet Marshal Rommel in a tank and battle it out. If he killed Rommel, he explains, he would be the champ, and if Rommel killed him—but that wouldn't happen. They'd let their men stand by and watch. Gen. Patton has a weak place for his men, particularly the buck privates who do most of the work and get so little of the credit.

This may not be the way to win the war, but many Americans need a horse doctor's drench of swagger right now as an antidote for the slow poison of too much waiting too long continued, coming to a dismal climax with Prime Minister Churchill's dolorous warning that it may be a couple more years before anything can be done about Hitler.

Indorsement of the Principle

IT IS probably silly to claim, as a pamphlet being widely circulated under the auspices of a number of Ohio organizations claims, that a million men and women could be jerked out of their government jobs in Washington and forced into the armed services, industry and agriculture. Bureaucracy may be a drag on civilization, but even so it can't be operated on in a vacuum. The loss of a million units of manpower in the world's-busiest capital would be felt acutely.

However, the off-with-their-heads faction will not fail to notice that Major Gen. Lewis B. Hershey testified before a congressional committee the other day that the government has failed to set a good example in releasing non-essential workers to the armed forces. Its spokesmen continue to be critical of private employers for a fault they are committing in their own practices. Perhaps the total of non-essential persons who might be let out of the federal family to relieve the manpower shortage is only 25 per cent of the estimate made by private critics—say 250,000. But it still would be miraculous if the government let them go, which is the reason it is being pressed to turn loose a million, instead. When impossibilities are being discussed, the terms are bound to be impossible, too.

Contrary to Reports

SOME Ohioans—the overwhelming majority of Ohioans—hope the impression that the war's principal hardship in this state is the difficulty of buying whisky never will reach the men on the battlefronts. They might not understand that this kind of talk is limited to the small group of patriots back home whose happiness rises and falls with the level of the available liquor supply at any given moment.

The rest of the Ohioans are too busy doing what they are supposed to be doing to worry because the demand for whisky consistently exceeds the supply, causing lines to form at liquor stores. This is something the men doing the fighting should know, in case they have the wrong idea. Actually there isn't a case on record of a man or woman in this state making the supreme sacrifice for his country due to inability to buy whisky. All reports to the contrary should be dismissed as so much loose talk, of comfort only to the enemy.

Fishing in Untroubled Waters

THE ENIGMA of Russo-Japanese relations is deepened by Moscow's announcement that Japan's fishing privileges off Siberia, in the Aleutians area, have been renewed for a year, with no change in the arrangement existing since 1923, except an increase in the rental rate.

The United States and Great Britain regard the Russian government's action as a relief to war pressure on Germany because they believe friendship with Russia in common cause would redound greatly to their advantage, as not this at war with Japan, if Russia would increase its pressure on that foe. But evidently they expect nothing more than Russia is willing to give them of its own accord; they are accepting renewal of the fishing treaty as they have accepted aid of Russia's other decisions concerning Japan without protest.

Meanwhile it is interesting to imagine what would have happened in the period before this country became a belligerent if it had made a treaty with Japan giving it the right to go fishing off Vladivostok in the Sea of Japan and to carry on the purely naval activities that are the invariable accompaniment of Japanese fishing.

Today and Tomorrow

U. S. Seen at Turning Point on Question of Isolation.

By WALTER LIPPMANN

WE ARE [illegible] and [illegible] points [illegible] we [illegible] others. [illegible] of what [illegible] the rest of [illegible] a [illegible] years and [illegible] summer of 1939, [illegible] year of fierce [illegible] to understand [illegible] our [illegible] As a [illegible] expected [illegible] the [illegible]

In the October days of the Japanese attack at Pearl Harbor [illegible] against the belligerents on the assumption that the cause of war or peace was a question of whether the United [illegible] the Atlantic and [illegible] Germany.

Now, again, the course of events has run ahead of the [illegible] dealing [illegible] about Axis. There are still [illegible] who think [illegible] a diminishing number, who think of lend-lease as [illegible] which we [illegible] our troops to [illegible] that [illegible] may fight their battles, not ours.

There are many more in congress, as the discussion of the Ball resolution discloses, who imagine that we can freely and at our leisure decide whether to accept or reject a continuing working arrangement with other nations.

Paul Mallon, whose "News Behind the News" column appears regularly on the editorial page of The Star, is ill and unable to write his column for today. It will be resumed when he is recovered from his illness.

And at the other (White House) end of Pennsylvania avenue, there are signs of illusions arising from the same mistaken assumption.

The other day an eminent newspaper and several well-known commentators, who try faithfully to reflect official opinion, announced that if our Allies did not accept the American interpretation of the Atlantic Charter as interpreted by these journalists, the United States would revert to "isolation."

The assumption, unconscious for many, at the root of these opinions is that we are the invulnerable bestowers of benefits on others. The assumption is an absolute fallacy.

It is quite as true of us as Mr. Churchill said it was of Britain that we "have to reach agreements with great and friendly equals and also to have a care to the rights of weaker and smaller states, and that it will not be given to any one nation to achieve the full satisfaction of its individual [illegible]

[illegible] to have become of age. It is to know one's strength by recognizing one's limitations.

The question for us is not whether we shall be pleased to continue to participate in [illegible] and in maintaining order in the world. We cannot afford not to do these things.

If, for example, 33 senators could again be organized as another battalion of death to reject any engagement which was proposed, the thing which happened after 1919 could not happen this time. No administration could then persuade our Allies to dissolve their alliance and to disarm.

We may be absolutely certain that the one sure effect of another isolationist victory this time would be to make still tighter and firmer the Anglo-Soviet alliance, and to draw into it the new France and the liberated countries.

Nor would our present Allies disarm. On the contrary, knowing that the victory of American isolationism would incite the enemy countries to plot for revenge, and that it would give aid and comfort to all Fascist and quasi-Fascist elements in every country, they would necessarily remain in a state of high military preparedness.

The world would look upon our refusal to organize peace as the certain prelude to another cycle of civil and international wars.

Inevitably we should then find that our action had wrecked our influence in South America, in Africa, and in Asia.

Africa, which is of such vital interest to the defense of this hemisphere, there would be in turmoil and confusion. For the native peoples of Africa will never respect a nation which exhibits such appalling weakness.

In Asia the Filipinos would lose all faith in us, once they saw that we were getting ready to be just as incapable of protecting them as we were in 1941. And in China the influence of those Chinese who are most friendly to us would sink to zero, while those who would make quite other arrangements would become dominant.

And at home, divided by the struggle with the isolationists, we should be once more a frustrated people. We should see no future in which we believed. We should become convinced that our form of government is self-paralyzing.

In the tragedy of that demoralization, where should we find the mind, the heart and the good will to master the issues which the war compels us to face?

Ohio's Past Makes News

Marion Area Has Place in Newspaperman's History of State.

By HARRY S. ELLIOTT

THEY say nothing is more stale and uninteresting than yesterday's newspaper, and a newspaperman is among the first to concede the verity of this appraisal. But the events recorded in yesterday's paper, which figuratively signifies the almost innumerable yesterdays of the past, have made history, and history is always interesting if told by one who can do the job well.

A newspaperman has proved it in the writing of what may well be termed a historical news story about Ohio, for it is told in the style of an able and experienced news writer and so is given a tone of clarity and freshness not always found in the works of historians.

D. W. Bowman

The author is David W. Bowman of Cincinnati, news editor of the Times-Star of that city, and lecturer in journalism at the University of Cincinnati's Evening college. The book, written primarily for school text book purposes but one that is certain to interest any reader, young or old, is titled "Pathway of Progress, A Short History of Ohio." It has been published by the American Book Co.

With a good newspaperman's ability to assemble his material in proper sequence and write his story as an orderly, flowing narrative, Mr. Bowman takes his readers in ease, enjoyment and comfort through all the scenes and events of Ohio's transition and development, starting with the ice age in which great glaciers ground out the state's hills and valleys, and extending down to the immediate present.

Mr. Bowman has recognized one element of human interest that the average historian misses. He tells of people and events relating to politics, other than government, war, transportation, industry and similar phases of human affairs generally conceded to be the most important. All these are adequately covered, be assured, but extra interest is provided in accounts of activities and people fighting in the less serious side of life. There are chapters and portions of chapters about the stage, motion pictures and radio, as well as about sports, and some of the colorful and sometimes eccentric characters who have had a place in Ohio's passing scene.

MR. BOWMAN'S book, [illegible] local [illegible] Ohio [illegible] few [illegible] the state as a whole. By way of illustration, here are some of the features relating to Marion county and vicinity.

In the chapter about the ice age, the era that long preceded the advent of man, there is a map showing that Marion county was in the area covered by the glacier, although near its edge. The terminal moraine, which extended through 14 Ohio counties, was in the eastern part of Knox county, less than a hundred miles southeast of here.

Another map, illustrating an account of Indian trails, shows the Scioto Trail extending from the Ohio River to a point near Lake Erie, following a course through Marion county, the one now used for our modern U. S. Route 23.

Naturally considerable space is given to the days of the Indians and to the frontier wars fought over a long period of years. There is an account of the battle which began three miles north of the site of Upper Sandusky and culminated in the death by fire of Col. William Crawford. It tells, too, about Simon Girty, the deep-dyed villain of Ohio pioneer days, and about numerous frontiersmen of better repute, such as Simon Kenton, Daniel Boone and Lewis Wetzel.

The reader is told about the events connected with the Treaty of Greenville, with a map showing the treaty line running across Union, Marion and Morrow counties.

The story of transportation in the early days includes a section about the inns which provided hospitality for travelers and mentions one located at McCutchenville, in Wyandot county.

Another portion of the history tells about the "underground railroads" of slavery days, used to provide escape routes for runaway slaves. According to a map showing the routes and stations, Marion county was not included, which is contrary to an impression long prevailing among some students of local history. The map shows one route passing through Union county and one station located there, Delaware county with three routes and two stations, Wyandot county with one route, and Morrow county with two routes and four stations.

OF COURSE Marion county's most famous son, Warren G. Harding, gets more attention than any other person from this section of the state. Others receiving mention include Calvin S. Brice, a native of Denmark, Morrow county, who was elected to the United States senate from Allen county, and Wallace W. Sabine, a native of Richwood who invented a device for locating enemy artillery and detecting signals in wartime.

Among the "unusual" and interesting Ohioans who provide subject matter is Jacob Newman Free, an eccentric who became widely known as "The Immortal J. N." He was a frequent visitor in Marion county and neighboring communities.

Originally a Cincinnati lawyer, he lost his brilliant intellect and became demented as the result of a stroke, and after that put in his time wandering from city to city announcing everywhere that he came to "hit the pressure." Known far and wide, he was permitted to ride the railways without paying fare.

According to Mr. Bowman's account, the stroke which brought on J. N.'s insanity came after he had won a verdict of not guilty for a man accused of murder and then heard his client admit that he actually had committed the crime. The account goes on to relate that in 1906, when about 80 years old, the Immortal J. N. was declared insane by a court in Upper Sandusky and a few years later died in a Toledo asylum.

These are just a few of the many Ohioans whose names enter into this history so replete with fact and human interest. Some are odd and eccentric, such as poor old Immortal J. N., but most of them are men and women who have performed important work for state and nation.

All in all, reading the book will not only [illegible] and give you [illegible] Ohioan should know, but it will leave you with a feeling of increased pride for being an Ohioan.

BEHIND THE "ATE" BALL

From News of Other Years

TEN YEARS AGO

It was Thursday, March 30, 1933.

A black powder bomb was exploded in the basement of the home of Rev. Father Charles E. Coughlin in Royal Oak, a suburb of Detroit, causing slight damage. Father Coughlin was nationally known through a series of radio broadcasts in which he dealt with economic problems.

Two bandits held up the Richwood Banking Co. and escaped with $5,000, forcing three officers and a customer to lie on the floor while they made their escape. It was the bank's second holdup in seven months.

Mrs. C. G. Smith and daughter Virginia returned to their home in Marion after spending the winter at Daytona Beach, Fla.

Plans to organize a "Booster club" with the help of ministers, the Y. M. C. A., Boy Scouts and Salvation Army officials, to help underprivileged children in Marion, were announced by Addison Bain.

Our Bismarck Sea Victory

"Skip Bombing" Played a Major Role.

By JACK STINNETT
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 30 — Since little Lieut. Gen. George Churchill Kenney (Gen. MacArthur's air force officer in the south Pacific) arrived in Washington, flying men have talked of nothing but "skip bombing."

Although there isn't an official line on it anywhere, "skip bombing" probably resulted in our all-out success in the Bismarck sea. That success can't be attributed entirely to this new bombing technique, but it's reported on good authority here that in one sortie, 12 B-25 (Billy Mitchell's) bombers accounted for 11 ships in that Jap convoy and left every one of them sunk or sinking. If that record, without the loss of a single plane, has ever been touched, we have failed to hear about it.

Skip bombing derives from that youthful trick of "skipping" a rock across the water. Bombers flying at almost deck level and top speed drop their bombs "flat" before they reach their target. The bomb hits the water, ricochets into the air and hits the ship just above or below the waterline. The perfect shot is just below the waterline — because that's a more vulnerable spot — but "on-the-first-bounce" shots are almost as deadly. In other words, it's using bombs as if they were wave-skipping torpedoes.

Just how it is done is something that won't come out until after the war, probably. Just who is responsible for it other than Lieutenant General Kenney isn't clear either. But there seems no doubt that he is the first man to have put it into practice in actual warfare.

As in the case of many inventions, necessity gave it birth. With a whale of a job to do and few planes to operate with, General Kenney used Flying Fortresses as "high level" bombers, more or less for decoys for ack-ack gunners. The Mitchells went racing in, skipped their bombs broadside, poured machine gun lead into the gun crews and deck hands, nosed up over the masts and were gone before the Japs knew what hit them.

The benefits of such a maneuver are apparent. Targets, being broadside, at a few hundred yards are much easier to draw a bead on than if they were the decks of those ships from 10,000 to 30,000-foot levels. Almost the only serious defense that can be raised against them is the ship's quota of machine guns, but planes coming in nose-first provide a minimum target.

"Skip bombing" is just one more innovation of General Kenney. The five-foot-six general has been credited with development of the parachute bomb, the first placement of machine guns in the wings of planes, the establishment of air supply lines for ground troops, and sundry other changes in design and air maneuvers.

CHURCHILL

gree by novel forms of intense air attack in which many hundreds of British aircraft were simultaneously employed," Churchill said.

Enemy Losses Severe

"The enemy losses in men and material, of course, has been very serious to him, and the panzer divisions in particular are remarkably mauled and enfeebled.

"It is, however, too soon to say what proportion of the Italian 20th and 21st army corps have been left behind," he quipped. Roars of laughter greeted the statement.

"Operations are being prosecuted with the utmost energy, he went on. "It must be remembered this new exploit of the desert must be viewed in its relation to the general scheme of action on the whole Tunisian front.

"The very fine unceasing advance of American forces and the increasing activities on the French sector and on the front of the British First Army all play their part in the combinations of General (Dwight) Eisenhower as supreme commander and his deputy General Sir (Harold) Alexander."

Churchill grinned but said nothing further when the dean of the house, 86-year-old Laborite William J. Thorne, called to him: "So you've got Rommel on the run again?"

As Churchill spoke in commons, the German radio in a broadcast heard here by Reuters substantially confirmed his report on El Hamma, saying that Indian and New Zealand troops had bypassed the German positions and had breached the gates of El Hamma."

New U. S. Tanks Used

Another German broadcast declared that "latest American tanks of the pilot type are being used in the El Hamma sector."

No explanation was immediately available as to what was meant by "pilot type" tanks.

The Italian broadcast said that the axis air strength was being thrown against "enemy columns of tanks moving towards the advanced lines."

Observers in London expressed the belief that Rommel now probably would attempt to avoid a pitched battle and slip past the probing United States columns thrusting toward the sea and his flank.

His object, it was believed was to head 170 miles farther north to Sousse where he could link up with the forces of Gen. Jurgeon Von Arnim.

One possibility was that he would aim to fight one more delaying action on a 40-mile line between Sousse and Kairouan before finally withdrawing into the Tunis and Bizerte perimeter of defenses.

One report from North Africa today said, however, that United States forces which struck from Fondouk were within 18 miles of Kairouan, the southwestern anchor of a possible axis defense line.

Gen. Freyberg, whose presence in Tunisia was disclosed for the first time by Churchill, also directed the outflanking movement in Libya which cut off some of Rommel's armored forces at a point 65 miles west of El Agheila at the Wadi Matratin. Wounded nine times in the last war, he also led the defense of Crete in this war.

Strike Cripples Work at Plant in Dayton

DAYTON, O., March 30 — A strike crippled war production at the Airtemp Division of Chrysler Corp. today.

Business Agent K. M. Kirkendall of the United Electrical and Radio Machine Workers (CIO) said 300 employes quit the night shift and workers on the day trick failed to report this morning.

Kirkendall said the strike was unauthorized and stemmed from a delay by the war labor board in deciding a wage dispute. FINISH FIGHT ON TAXES DUE Reappointment of Adm. Land to Maritime Commission Also Opposed.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 30 — Pay-as-you-go taxes and the reappointment of Rear Admiral Emory S. Land as maritime commission chairman were two issues slated for finish fights on congressional floors today, while post-war and labor legislation commanded the offstage attention on Capitol Hill.

Meanwhile, from the office of war information came the report that the Nazi party had sold out the middle-class German businessmen to the "Nazi-controlled trusts, monopolies and giant combines."

OWI charged the Nazi regime has violated its promise to the German people for the "creation and maintenance of a healthy middle class"—a promise promulgated in 1920 as a cardinal point of the Nazi program and declared by Hitler then to be unalterable. It said innumerable smaller businesses were being forced to close down or become "outright subsidiaries" of giant corporations and monopolies, and that the interests of consumers also had been ignored in the "ruthless centralization" policy.

Tax Deadlock

As the capital studied the OWI report, the interests of some 44,000,000 American taxpayers concentrated on the house of representatives where the possibility of an absolute deadlock grew stronger as the lawmakers made ready to vote on pay-as-you-go legislation.

The close of four days of heated debate saw the chamber still split into three stubborn factions (1) Ruml plan advocates of abating a full year's taxes, most of whom are Republicans, (2) supporters of the ways and means committee plan providing no abatement, principallw Democrats, and (3) a bi-partisan bloc seeking a compromise cancelling part of one tax year. Both the first two groups claimed enough votes for victory, but there was some indication that the three-way split might stalemate all efforts to gain a majority for any one proposal.

Labor Tension Eased

Behind the legislative scene, dual pressure for passage of some of the toughest labor measures in years appeard to have been temporarily eased by an eleventh-hour extension of the deadline in the wage battle between the southern Appalachian soft coal operators and the United Mine Workers of America. News of the agreement to continue negotiations for 30 days after the present contract expires tomorrow came to congress at a time when each house had one eye on the coal dispute and the other on available labor measures which could be sped to both floors for action.

In the senate, a foreign relations subcommittee started its sessions seeking a post-war legislative program which would be agreeable to more than two-thirds of the solons when brought up on the floor. Chairman Connally, (D-Texas) of the full committee told reporters as he called the subgroup together that the government needed a resolution carrying with it "the substantial support" of the senate in order to work out with other United Nations a program of collective security after the war.

Ruml Tax Plan Defeat Predicted by Rayburn

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 30 — Speaker Sam Rayburn predicted today the house would reject the Ruml skip-a-year tax plan while, as it neared a vote. Minority Leader Joseph W. Martin said "we're confident" the proposal will succeed.

Rayburn expressed his opinion in response to a question at his first press conference since debate began on the now bitterly contested controversy on how best to get taxpayers on a pay-as-you-go basis.

Martin's statement followed an hour-long strategy meeting he held with the Republican steering committee.

Rayburn declined to predict whether President Roosevelt would veto the Ruml plan if it should reach him bearing the approval of the house and senate. Rep. Dies (D-Tex) told the house Saturday he was certain of such a veto.

RAF RAIDS

ing day and night assaults on the continent, which were renewed March 29 with a heavy raid on Duisburg, the allies were keeping a promise to hit at the enemy every time the weather permits.

The offensive was kept going during the daylight hours yesterday when American-built Ventura bombers of the RAF attacked enemy shipping at Rotterdam, industrial targets in the Netherlands and railway yards at Abbeville, France.

As they struck smoke was reported still rising high above the big German submarine base at St. Nazaire, which was subjected to a terrific bombardment by the RAF Sunday night.

The ministry of information reported the attack had razed most of the remaining buildings in the port, which had been hit 45 times before by British and American bombers. The ministry quoted German reports as saying only 500 of the 48,000 persons who once lived in the city were still residing there.

The German-controlled Paris radio, meanwhile, reported that a Sunday afternoon raid on Rouen by American bombers had killed 96 persons and left thousands homeless.

Last night's losses were the highest the RAF has suffered in a single night's raid since Sept. 16-17, 1942, when 39 bombers failed to return from widespread raids on the Ruhr.

It was the second costliest attack on Berlin. Twenty-two aircraft were reported missing from the Jan. 17-18 raid.

Observers concluded that last night's assault either was made by a much larger force of bombers than usual or that the defenses of the city had been strengthened greatly.

The biggest loss ever suffered by the RAF in a single night was 52 bombers in the 1,000-bomber raid on Bremen and other targets on the night of June 25-26, 1942. Twenty-three were missing from the Essen raid on March 12-13 when the Krupp works were damaged heavily.

Berlin Says Little of Raid on Capital

By The Associated Press

STOCKHOLM, March 30—The Berlin correspondent of the newspaper Aftonbladet today dispatched only the barest account of the British bomber raid on Berlin last night.

The story merely reported that several waves of British bombers struck at Berlin, that the first wave was turned back and the others were "disturbed" by the German capital's defenses.

Apparently no other details were permitted.

Churchill Gives Encouragement on African Situation

By DEWITT MACKENZIE

Should Premier Churchill give us a succinct bulletin on the status of the battle of Tunisia in his statement [illegible] commons today which, after recording the fall of Gabes on the coast, he says that [illegible] are very reason to be satisfied [illegible] made by our superior forces and superior and resolute commanders."

Wise in the ways of war, however, he adds in the same breath a warning against underrating "the task which confronts the whole allied forces in Tunisia." The great Rommel is on the run, trying to lead his forces out of the trap which is closing to annihilate them. Still there are likely to be bloody days ahead.

The great feat of arms which has brought the allied forces to within measurable distance of final success rests primarily on superb generalship and unselfish coordination of effort among the British, French and American armies engaged.

No Complaining

Some of the fiercest fighting of the whole war has been waged among the rugged wadis and jebels and the man-made defenses of this French possession. The casualties undoubtedly have been grievous. Yet not once have we heard any of the allies say: "We are carrying more than our share of the load."

The strategy which laid the trap for the wily Rommel has proved its own worth. This, was, of course, plotted in a council of generals over which Commander-In-Chief Eisenhower presided, and one finds his personality reflected in the great cooperation. One also sees the experience and sagacity of the veteran British leaders, Alexander and Montgomery, in the plans which wrecked the Mareth line — among the world's most powerful defenses. Our general "two-gun" Patton and others presumably contributed.

Once the strategy was determined, the tactics of its execution fell to the generals in the field. Those tactics speak for themselves, though I think an extra touch of the cap goes to the Cromwellian Montgomery and his gallant crew who overcame that terrible Mareth line where so many British boys must have died in the "devil's cauldron."

More Is Needed

But more than generalship and unselfish coordination will have played a vital part when finally the allies have fought their way through the remaining valleys of death to success. Among the points we must note are these:

1. Allied cooperation existed not only in Tunisia but extended to the continent. The unprecedented bombing of Berlin and other axis cities recently has been, among other things, to force the Germans to keep warplanes at home for defense instead of sending them to Tunisia and the Russian front.

2. The great part played by the British and American air forces in the Tunisian campaign again emphasizes the growing importance of this fighting army. Montgomery's victory over Rommel in Egypt and Libya was due in no small degree to Anglo-American airpower, and the same can be said of the present show. The Mareth line probably couldn't have been mastered without the terrible bombing administered to Rommel's positions.

Thus we have further proof that as allied air strength increases in the various theaters, so do our successes.

3. Tunisia also reminds us of the great striking power which the allies are piling up around the world. As I have already reported in this column, one of the outstanding impressions of my recent 35,000 mile swing through the war zones was that we finally are hitting our stride in the matter of providing the wherewithal with which to beat the enemy.

4. Of general interest to all the allies, and of peculiar interest to America, is the fact that our newly tried fighting forces—barring the air veterans who have been with Montgomery in Libya—have come through strong. Morale has been top-hole and they have gone a business-like job.

There remains one interesting question which I hear frequently, and that is: what will happen to Rommel when his last defense cracks? Well, one can figure out a lot of answers, but the most logical seems to me to be that Hitler will be a fool if he doesn't order the marshal to fly home. Rommel is too valuable to the fatherland to be allowed to fall into allied hands if he can get away.

Charges Labor Waste in Government Offices

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 30—Accusing federal departments of "sheltering draft dodgers engaged in non-essential activities," Senator Holman, (Rep-Ore) urged the American Legion and other patriotic organizations today to "direct their attention to a thorough house-cleaning" of government agencies.

Speaking at a senate military committee hearing on a bill to draft men and women into war jobs, Holman expressed "considerable alarm about the present waste of manpower."

Turning to a witness, Morris F. Devine of Manchester, N. H., chairman of the American Legion's national legislative committee, Holman asked for comment on his statement.

"I definitely approve of those views," Devine replied.

1st Base Trouble Bothers Indians

By The Associated Press

LAFAYETTE, Ind., March 30—First base trouble continued to rear its ugly head in the Cleveland Indians camp here today, while Manager Lou Boudreau was trying to concentrate on some solution for his pitcher problems.

With the abbreviated training season obviating the possibility of a full-scale try-out for his junior hurlers, Boudreau still was faced with the chore of sluffing off at least four freshman to pare his mound squad to battle strength.

Meanwhile the comings and goings around first base seemed to point to a definite assignment for Otto Denning, who came up to the Tribe last year, although there are extenuating circumstances as long as your arm.

Jeff Heath, at present holding out in favor of a shipyards job, is one circumstance. Another is the possibility that either Joe Vosmik or Rip Radcliff may be purchased by the Indians.

Such a purchase might alleviate the manpower shortage in the outer pastures, and permit Roy Cullenbine to return to competition for baseman No. 1.

Ray Mack, meanwhile, was informed today that his appeal for deferment from selective service may not receive final action for 30 to 90 days.

Boudreau, limping on an ankle injured slightly in an exhibition game with the Lafayette semi-pro Red Sox Sunday, sent the Tribe through a three-hour session of batting practice and infield drill today.

Next competition slated for the Indians will be tomorrow, when they square off against the Purdue university nine. Tribesmen, however, will be operating in the battery spots for both teams.

Deacon Optimistic Over Reds' Chances

By The Associated Press

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., March 30—With the opening game of the season some three weeks away and two weeks of spring training tucked safely away, Manager Bill McKechnie of the Cincinnati Reds today was quite optimistic about the Rhinelanders prospects in the National league pennant chase.

"I'm not predicting that we'll win the pennant," the deacon stated, "but we will win a lot more games and finish better than we did last year."

"Eddie Miller has made our infield the best in the league," McKechnie continued, "and his play-calling and natural leadership will make Bert Haas at third a 50 per cent better ball player than he was last season."

McKechnie indicated the outfield would probably shape up with Max Marshall in right, Mike McCormick in Center and Frank Kelleher in left. Although the latter failed to come through in expected style last year, he is being counted on heavily to snap his batting slump on or about April 21, when the Reds open against St. Louis in Crosley Field.

Ray Mack Appeals Draft Classification

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, March 30—The Cleveland Indians' regular second baseman Ray Mack has appealed his 1-A selective service classification, the public record of Cuyahoga county board No. 29 showed yesterday.

The record, which does not list reasons for appeals, showed Mack filed his plea last Wednesday—the day he returned to Cleveland from the Tribe's spring training camp at Lafayette, Ind. He said last Thursday after a visit to his board's appeals agent that such action was "not an impossibility."

After an engagement of several months, the 26-year-old infielder was married Oct. 16, 1940, the date of the first selective service registration, and is the father of an 18-month-old child. He was 3-A until board 29 reclassified him early last week.

MEWHORTER LOOKS FOR GOOD SEASON IN SOFTBALL LEAGUE

Commission To Meet Early Next Month To Survey Situation.

A successful softball season for Marion this summer is anticipated by Marion Mewhorter, Y.M.C.A. boy's program director. He said today the city softball commission probably will meet early next month to map the season's activities.

"Baseball as a whole will carry on pretty well in all departments this summer in Marion. Softball especially should have a good year because of less equipment needed than for hardball," Mewhorter said.

Postal cards have already been sent to prospective entrants in the softball leagues concerning the probability of their entering. After all information about the teams has been collected, the number of leagues needed and the entry fee can be figured out.

Although many of Marion's former softball players have entered the services, both Mewhorter and Anson Pickerel, commission chairman, expect a large number of players this season. Many high school boys have announced their intention of playing on some league team. This will be possible because of the number of civilian jobs that school pupils have taken over.

Ohio Sports Chatter

By FRITZ HOWELL
Associated Press Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, March 30—Wrapping up a few loose ends of this and that picked up on Ohio's sports fields:

Frederick Cope of Salem High school addressed the Ohio Association of Track Coaches here Saturday on "How to make a track program pay for itself"—and then announced cancellation for the duration of the Salem night relays which he has operated for the last 13 years.

The class A high school basketball semi-finals Saturday afternoon drew 4,798 customers, and the finals attracted 3,884. The class B two-session event drew about 3,000, but Commissioner H. R. Townsend doesn't have the exact figures.

No new records were set in the state basketball classic, but Dale Haverstock of Canton McKinley come close with his futile 23-point splurge against Newark in the finals. Dwight Dee Snelling of Newark holds the class A scoring record with 27 against Youngstown Rayen in 1941.

The Clark County Fish and Game association reports that 90,000 starlings were slaughtered during the winter months in Springfield where the birds had become a nuisance. The same association has purchased 200 young pheasants to be liberated on Clark county farms where hunting is permitted.

They're still digging divots at Ohio State university's golf course, but with a hog instead of a mashie. A large portion of the 36-hole layout—between fairways—has been plowed into victory gardens which the members will cultivate.

Denton T. (Cy) Young, major league pitching immortal whose 511 victories stand as the big league record, celebrated his 76th birthday anniversary Sunday on his Peoli farm in the Tuscarawas county hills.

FOURNIER TO MANAGE TOLEDO AA MUD HENS

Former Big Leaguer To Take Reins Thursday.

By The Associated Press

TOLEDO, O., March 30—Jack Fournier, former big league player and scout, is the new manager of the Toledo Mud Hens of the American association.

G. E. Gilliland, president of the Toledo club, announced Fournier signed yesterday and would take charge of Mud Hen spring drills open Thursday at Ohio university, Athens.

Fournier was named after Ralph Winegarner declined the appointment because of his draft status and retained his war job in Benton, Kan.

The new Toledo manager was an outfielder and first baseman during his playing career which included service in the Pacific coast league, with the Chicago White Sox in 1913; the New York Yankees in 1918, St. Louis Cardinals in 1920 and five years with Brooklyn starting in 1923.

He launched his managerial career with Newark of the International league in 1927 and recently has scouted for the St. Louis Browns, parent club of the Toledo Mud Hens.

If Only Naymick Could Find The Plate

Six-Foot Six Hurler Is Fast as Feller, but He's a Wild Indian.

By DILLON GRAHAM
AP Features Sports Editor

LAFAYETTE, Ind.—Just about the biggest, tallest pitcher in captivity is on exhibition here every afternoon as the Cleveland Indians go through their spring drills on the Purdue University field.

He's barely four inches under seven feet, weighs more than 200 pounds and looks like a bruising tackle on leave from the Chicago Bears' forward wall.

The man is strong as iron, can throw a ball so fast you can't follow it and has good stuff. He's 25 years old and his name is Michael Naymick.

There's only one trouble with him:

He hasn't the slightest suspicion of where the ball is going when he lets it loose. Then its just duck quick, Johnny, and every man for hisself.

The first time he got into the box for the Indians some years ago he hit Hank Greenberg and Charley Gehringer. Next time Hank came up, shying a bit away from the plate, Mike threw one three feet back of him. Naymick has improved some since then, but you get the general idea.

Came Up Six Years Ago

He came to spring training with the Indians six years ago and has made four other spring trips but every season Cleveland has farmed him out. He struck out 230 batters in 213 innings for Oswego in 1933 and the next year, pitching for Cedar Rapids, he whiffed 182 in 180 innings. He slipped on ice and hurt his wrist early in 1941 and didn't see much action that year. Last year he won three and lost five for Baltimore and then had a 1-0 record with Wilkes-Barre, pitching some 30 innings of relief work.

Both the Army and Marines have said he was too tall for them, so he's 4F and a pretty good bet to stay with the Indians.

Down in Florida three years ago Oscar Vitt told me Naymick would someday be a star—"He's as fast as Feller," Os said. Manager Lou Boudreau has the same idea—whenever Mike learns to locate the plate with any consistency.

MIKE NAYMICK
Wild Redskin

The Indians have four other rookie mound prospects — Allie Reynolds and Paul Calvert from Wilkes-Barre, Marvin Center from Baltimore and Ray Poat from Indianapolis. Perhaps John Salveson will turn out to be the most valuable of the newcomers. Salveson is a 29-year-old right-hander who has been up before with the Giants, Pirates, White Sox and Senators without notable success. He won 24 games for Oakland.

Seven Holdovers

There are seven holdovers who'll probably do most of the chunking—Jim Bagby, whose 17 wins topped the Indians; Mel Harder, Vernon Kennedy, A. Smith, Joe Heving, Al Milnar and Chubby Dean.

Boudreau is trying both Roy Cullenbine, the outfielder from the Yankees, and Catcher Otto Denning at first base in the big gap created by hard-hitting Les Fleming's decision to continue his work as a ship-builder. Ray Mack will be at second, Skipper Lou at short and Ken Keltner at third. The Army may call Mack before long but Boudreau isn't worrying about that until the summons arrives.

Jeff Heath and Oris Hockett are slated for two outfield posts, with Henry Edwards from Baltimore, and Fabian Gaffke contesting the other spot. Warren (Buddy) Rosar, from the Yankees, and Gene Desautels will do the backstopping.

Boudreau isn't bragging about the outlook and he isn't crying either. The Indians may be tough.

SNATCHES OF SPORTS

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

NEW YORK, March 30—In case case you're wondering how Sailor Sammy Snead managed to knock off a couple of 67's in winning that Coronado, Calif., golf tournament last week-end in spite of playing only when the Navy isn't keeping him busy: how Frankie Srafaci can continue to turn in low scores for his occasional rounds in Australia, etc., here's what now sounds like a reasonable explanation... Ernest Jones, widely-known golf teacher who lost a leg in World War I, says that once a golfer learns the "feel" of the proper swing, he never entirely loses it so he doesn't need much practice..."On my first round I came out of the hospital after losing a leg, I shot a 38-35 over my home course," Jones adds.

One-Minute Sports Page—Don't start buying your tickets for the Creg Rice-Gunder Haegg races yet. Although Haegg wants to come here this summer, arrangements haven't gone beyond an application for air travel priorities and the A.A.U. hasn't had any ruling on that... Oklahoma Aggies' wrestlers, who haven't been able to get any competition all season, are planning to hitch-hike to New York for the A.A.U. championships in mid-April... In an even dozen fights before he retired, Henry Armstrong averaged 18,000 spectators and a $75,000 gate for each show.

Today's Guest Star—Sam Butz, Jacksonville (Fla.) Times-Union: "The stories from the northern training camps get funnier, if not longer, day by day. Manager Billy Southworth was quoted recently as being happy when the weather chased the Cardinals indoors at Cairo after they had been outdoors for three whole days in a row. Maybe if Billy would get some of those crash helmets shipyard workers wear, they could stand that hot Cairo sun a bit better."

REMATCHED. The scheduled wrestling match between Rufus Jones and Farmer Jones which was cancelled last week because of an injury suffered by Rufus (above) will be run off Thursday at the Armory, Matchmaker Les Fishbaugh reported. The one-hour semi-final pits Rene LaBell against Larry Kasaboski in a request match and Jack LaRue and John Vansky meet in the 30-minute opener.

No Visitors—Man O' War Lonesome

"Big Red," 26 years old, misses his company.

Associated Press Features

LEXINGTON, Ky.—The war is playing tricks on Man o' War, a product of the first World war and now at 26 Kentucky's most famous piece of horse flesh. The tourist stream has been nipped to a dribble by travel restrictions.

This was disclosed in a visit to Big Red's quarters at Faraway Farm to see Samuel D. Riddle's plutocrat of the pasture observe his 26th birthday on March 29. Man o' War is leading a life of peace these days.

"It's the gasoline raitoning and other restrictions on travel," said Harrie B. Scott, manager of the farm and guardian of Big Red's welfare. "There's no doubt about it. They used to come out here in droves to see him, but since gasoline rationing went into effect the crowds have dropped away."

Visitors averaged around 30,000 a year before the war and seldom fell below 100 a day. Now they may be counted by the dozen. That seems an ironic twist for a thoroughbred who enjoyed posing for an audience and could perform that chore like a model.

Big Red Enjoys Company

But Big Red still knows how it's done. When Will Halbut, the Negro groom, goes into the barn to lead the great sire out for visitors to see, the big stallion perks up his ears, comes to the door and rolls his eyes around to exchange glances with the guests.

"The greatest hoss in the world," Will says, and Big Red understands.

At 26, Man o' War has reached a ripe old age for a thoroughbred. Although his general health is good and there is nothing about his appearance to denote his advanced age, Owner Riddle announced in early March that the horse was being retired from stud because of his age. The Pennsylvania man, who bought Man o' War from August Belmont at the Saratoga sales for $5,000 in 1918 always has put the horse's welfare ahead of every thing else.

Riddle retired him from racing in 1921 because he feared the heavy weights assigned him by the handicappers would injure Big Red. That foresight has been advanced as the reason for Man o' War's phenomenal record as a sire. His earnings on the track totaled $249,465 in a day of small purses.

Although he won 20 of his 21 starts as a two-year-old and three-year-old, the Riddle thoroughbred may be known longer for the success of his offspring. Up to the first of 1943, they had won $3,007,967 for an average of $8,594 each. Man o' War's stud fee, incidentally, was $5,000.

Brown Starts Grid Practic

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 30—Ohio state university football players and hopefuls, some of them reporting just to get into condition for military service, began spring practice today.

Coach Paul E. Brown, whose team is the Western Conference and national champ last year, threw the pigskin for the first time to candidates hoping to make a try at end berths.

Besides all the Buckeye returning lettermen, there are a dozen varsity players, a host of freshmen and eight to ten 17-year-olds who enter the ivy university in the spring quarter.

The mentor said "it will be a lot of our problems if army would permit us to keep on the campus to play our games.

The squad will hear and work out in the gym this week and next and outdoors the following six weeks winds up May 2 with the annual spring game.

TOLEDO CAGE TITLE HOPES ARE BANISHED

All Star Freshman Squad Loses in Garden.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 30—The national title hopes of Toledo university's stellar all-freshman basketball quintet exploded in Madison Square Garden last night as St. John's of Brooklyn defeated the Ohioans 48 to 27 in the finals of the national invitational tournament.

The victory earned St. John's the right to meet the National Collegiate Athletic association champion Thursday night in a Red Cross benefit game that might well decide the national cage championship. The NCAA titlist will be decided tonight when Wyoming and Georgetown clash in the finals of the association's tournament in the Garden.

Toledo, recognized as Ohio collegiate champs fell victim to a late St. John's rally.

The Ohioans got away to a slow start, trailing 22-15 at the half, but managed to knot the count at 22-all five minutes after the intermission. St. John's found the nets for five quick fielders however, and Toledo was unable to get back into the game.

The winners' six-foot nine-inch center, Harry (Big Boy) Boykoff, dumped in 13 points in pacing his squad to victory and was his team's mainstay on the defense.

The St. John's defenders came in for a major share of the credit, too, as they held Davage Minor, Toledo's ace point-getter this year, scoreless.

Union County Man Waits Hours To Avert Train Wreck

Special to The Star

MARYSVILLE—C. A. Ford, a farmer of near Broadway, west of here had to await about a half day for a train to come along so he could prevent a train wreck but believes it was worth the effort.

Walking in a field near the tracks of the little used track of the Erie railroad, he found a section of rail about five inches long. Upon investigation he found where it had been thrown from the railroad. Fearing that a train would come along at any time, he remained at the tracks. Finally about four hours later, a freight train appeared and he flagged it down.

Ford said the engineer could not "thank him enough" and stated that the broken rail probably would have caused the engine to be derailed if the train had started across it at normal speed."

YORKVILLE'S FOREIGN POPULATION HIGHEST

Leads Ohio in Class, Census Bureau Reports.

By The Associated Press

YORKVILLE, O., March 30—The state high school class B basketball title isn't the only championship this Ohio river community holds—it also possesses the Buckeye state's village cosmopolitan crown.

The census bureau's classification of towns between 1,000 and 2,500 population shows this village has more persons of foreign parentage than any other Ohio community of comparable size.

Of Yorkville's 1963 inhabitants, 778 were born overseas, and 829 are children of parents one or both of whom were born in foreign lands. The second town in the bracket has 504 born overseas, and 909 born of foreign parents.

The names of Yorkville players bear out the foreign extraction statistics. Among them are Walter Jokovich, Richard Dayoub, Carl Casshio, Anton Radakovich, James Franko, J. Karanzas, William Kolikias, Harry Gevas, Armond Fior, Vandel Magnone, and the star, Robert Jackson.

The Yorks come from a hotbed of basketball. Situated in both Belmont and Jefferson counties, the village is almost within sight of Martins Ferry, which lost to Newark, now state class A cage champ, in the semi-finals. And just across the Ohio river is Wheeling, which was taking the West Virginia championship for the sixth time while Yorkville was winning the Ohio crown.

Former Bucyrus Resident Leads Air Raids on Japs

Major James Philpott Directs Bombers in Wiping Out Enemy at Strategic Spot in Burma.

A man born in Bucyrus who spent most of his years in the shadow of West Coast aircraft factories, flying for the first time at the age of 15, was the leader of successful bombing attacks against by U. S. medium bombers over the strategically-important Japanese Myitnge bridge in the Mandalay area on Thursday, March 18.

The former Crawford county man is Major James Philpott, 30, whose present home is in Los Angeles, Calif. Formerly a test pilot for TWA, Major Philpott is now a bomber squadron leader. As squadron commander, the major flies in the lead plane of his squadron.

Riding with him in the successful thrust at the Jap-controlled bridge was Thoburn Wiant, an Associated Press correspondent in the Middle East. Wiant's account of the bombing attack was delayed, possibly because of unfavorable communication connections.

Four Years With TWA

Major Philpott went into the air corps about two years ago after serving for four years as a TWA test pilot.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifton Philpott, who now live in a Los Angeles suburb. Clifton Philpott, son of a former Bucyrus Methodist minister, was associated with the Hadfield-Penfield Steel Co. in Bucyrus during World war I.

Major Philpott's nearest relative in Bucyrus is Mrs. Mae L. Kloepper, a first cousin. Mrs. Kloepper is the Crawford county treasurer.

He was in Bucyrus last summer on the way from a Colorado Army air field to Washington, D. C., with a large bomber. He landed the plane at Wright Field near Dayton and flew to Bucyrus in a smaller craft.

Story of Burma Exploit

WITH UNITED STATES MEDIUM BOMBERS OVER THE MANDALAY AREA, March 18—(Delayed)—Japanese stubbornly defending Myitnge bridge got the surprise of their lives today, but few if any of them probably are living now to tell about it.

The largest formation of United States medium bombers ever assembled over a single target in Burma wiped out ack-ack batteries surrounding the bridge six miles south of Mandalay, then followed through with several direct hits on the span and nearby installations.

It was the greatest exhibition of mass bombing I have witnessed during the past six months. It climaxed a dramatic two-day series of raids on this repeatedly-bombed bridge, one of the most important targets in Burma because it is on the vital railway connecting Rangoon, Mandalay and Lashio.

Explosives left so much smoke and flame I couldn't see the exact damage to the bridge, but I knew most if not all the defenses were knocked out. Not even one ack-ack burst came at us as we half circled the area after the attack. All our planes and crews returned safely.

Our total damage: two small ack-ack holes in one plane.

"We blew the living hell out of them," declared Maj. James Philpott, 30 of Los Angeles, a former TWA test pilot, who led our formations yesterday and today.

"It was a perfect day for bombing and our bombardiers didn't miss a chance."

Philpott, who was born at Bucyrus, Ohio, was educated at Pomona, Calif. He heads the "Skulls and Wings," the roughest, toughest, fightingest guys I ever saw.

Most members of "Skulls and Wings" are former pursuit pilots, and they fly bombers like pursuits. Some of them helped make the longest mass non-combat flight in history last July when they ferried planes from California to China.

They wear white skulls and wings on their flying jackets and have the same insignia on their planes. The Japanese already have good cause to fear that insignia, but the worst is yet to come.

"These guys aren't afraid of any damned thing," Major Philpott said. "They'll fight at the drop of the hat any time of the day or night."

Confirmed by Writer

I can vouch for that, after flying, eating, sleeping and fighting with them for two days.

We had a busy afternoon session yesterday. The Japanese started a smoke screen as we approached, but it was woefully ineffective. We dropped large-caliber bombs which barely missed the bridge but hit the approaches. One blew an anti-aircraft battery to bits.

The bridge is a bombardier's nightmare. It is less than 15 feet wide and resembles a toothpick from the air.

As we swung from the target, acres of ack-ack appeared behind and beneath us, rocking our plane as gently as a mother does the cradle. More black puffs appeared. Some seemed as big as airplanes.

But the big show occurred today when several bombers augmented "skulls and wings."

I rode in the lead plane with Major Philpott, who has been flying since he was 15 years old.

"That ack-ack yesterday made us mad," Philpott said. "We'll fix 'em today."

I looked back. Our formation was so perfect the planes seemed to be held together by invisible cables. The bombing a few seconds later was faultless.

The Japanese apparently got no warning. They barely started ack-acking us when tons of high explosives poured from the bellies of our planes like dimes from a jack-potted slot machines. Smoke, covering every inch of the huge target area, shot to the sky in gigantic mushroom shapes. Then more waves of bombers came, loaded with big stuff which they disgorged quickly.

I hurried from window to window. There was no ack-ack nor enemy aircraft anywhere in the sky.

Philpott yelled as he headed homeward:

"I told you so."

Ohio Provides Model U. S. Garden Project

By The Associated Press

DAYTON, O.—A 40-acre Victory garden project at Greenmont Village here will be used as a model by federal mutual home projects throughout the country, Marvin M. Miniard, chairman of the Greenmont Village housing committee, reports. At the request of the government's mutual ownership housing agency a copy of the local project has been sent to Washington for distribution, Miniard said.

Organized under a village garden committee, 300 families have signed up for gardens at $1 apiece to pay for plowing and fertilizer. The 40-acre tract is divided into sections with garden work under the supervision of section chiefs, and one five-acre area has been set aside to be worked cooperatively on a quantity basis, the total produce to be divided among the workers.

Surplus produce on the 300-single-unit garden plots will be sold and traded among the villagers at a community hall.

GRAIN PRICES HOLD TO NARROW RANGE

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, March 30—Grain futures trading held within a restricted range today although the undertone of the market was firm. Most trading interests focused attention on developments in Washington and seemed reluctant to take a position on either side of the market. Rye and oats followed wheat and corn was held at ceiling levels.

Live Poultry Exchange Closes in Cleveland

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND, March 30—The live poultry exchange was closed today and supplies of fowl dwindled rapidly after most members of the Cleveland Wholesale Poultry Dealers association suspended operations, claiming they were unable to sell at a profit under existing ceiling prices.

No carload lots of poultry were received in the city, the exchange said, and the stock on hand was reported at 1,981,741 pounds compared with 2,695,745 pounds the same day a year ago.

Wholesalers in Cleveland and Akron decided here last night to remain closed to the usual buyers until some action is taken to eliminate the losses incurred under present wholesale ceilings, said Sidney H. Moss, attorney for the association. Meanwhile, these dealers are continuing to supply hotels, restaurants and institutions from their stocks, Moss added.

The attorney asserted the association handles about 90 per cent of the live poultry brought into Cleveland. Fowl on hand in numerous retail establishments disappeared rapidly from the counters, and those dealing exclusively in this food expected they might be forced to close.

PIGEON COLLARED

By The Associated Press

ST. LOUIS, Mo.—Feeding in a St. Louis backyard, a pigeon pecked at a slice of pressed ham and a slice of bread. The ham and bread, with holes in their centers, flipped into the air and came down around the bird's neck. With this heavy collar around him Mr. Pigeon was unable to take off and the humane society finally was called to his rescue.

'ROCHESTER' TURNS ANGEL

By The United Press

SAN DIEGO, Cal.—It has just developed here that "Rochester," Negro comedian with Jack Benny, is an "angel" in a big way. He financed the Pacific Parachute Co., which was opened on a shoestring by Howard Smith, 29-year-old Negro, for the purpose of giving work to the unemployed of his race. Thanks to "Angel" Rochester's money, the plant has developed into a thriving concern that now gives work to unemployed whites, Mexicans and Negroes alike.

MARKET HOLDS FIRM TODAY

Stock List Shows Strength Despite Some Profit Cashing.

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 30—Selective strength persisted in today's stock market, with dealings broad and active but profit cashing on the lengthy drive put many leaders in the minus column.

New highs for the past three to six years were plentiful among rails and industrials.

While the war news continued exceptionally cheerful, both investment and inflation factors were dimmed a bit by the feeling the seven-session bulge might call for a technical correction.

Stocks giving a good account of themselves included Goodyear, J. I. Case, Montgomery Ward and General Motors. Slipping tendencies were shown for U. S. Steel, Bethlehem, Chrysler, International Harvester and Allied Chemical.

UNITY OF ALL FRENCH FORCES IS EXPECTED

DeGaulle Aid and Giraud Now in Conference.

By The Associated Press

ALGIERS, March 30—As a result of conferences between Gen Henri Giraud and Gen. Georges Catroux, it was reported today, a program for unification of the French forces now arrayed against the axis probably will be completed within the next 10 days.

Gen. Charles De Gaulle, Fighting French leader for whom Catroux is acting as liaison officer, then is expected to come to Algiers himself to give his approval to the program.

Sources close to Catroux said last night he and Giraud already had reached agreement on numerous phases of plans for uniting the French empire overseas in a solid front against the axis.

One source said a tentative plan discussed by Giraud and Catroux would place the latter at the head of the revamped French government overseas while Giraud, who now is French civil and military commander in chief in North Africa, would become commander of French military forces.

How DeGaulle would fit into this plan was not clear, although it was said he probably would be recognized by Giraud as the leader of French interests in continental France—a post which would assume paramount importance in event of allied landings on the European continent.

Once an accord between Giraud and DeGaulle is reached, it is believed a thorough house-cleaning will be in order to rid the French North African administration of all lukewarm officeholders and replace them with men staunchly pro-allied in their sympathies. Many of the replacements, it was assumed, would be DeGaullists.

MARION ATTORNEY GETS COMMISSION IN ARMY

W. K. Davis Advanced to Lieutenancy.

William K. Davis, Marion attorney who has been in military service since last June, has been made a first lieutenant in the department of the judge advocate general, according to word received by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. Kay Davis of 247 East Church street.

He received the commission March 22, and after a brief visit at his home here left Sunday for Chicago where he will take further training to prepare for his duties.

He had been with a service unit at Cleveland with the rank of corporal, and before that was at Fort McClellan, Alabama, for basic training.

Lieut. Davis practiced law in Marion for 12 years before entering service and was secretary of the Marion County Agricultural society at the time of his induction.

Two from Marion On Official "Missing" List

Pfc. Robert William Johnston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Johnston of 210 Silver street, and Pvt. Owen E. Hogan, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Hogan of 561 North Main street, are included in a list of 64 enlisted men and one officer, all from Ohio, officially listed as missing in action in a war department announcement to The Associated Press.

A news account reporting the youths missing appeared in The Star on March 10 when the parents were notified in a telegram from the war department.

The youths went into service on Oct. 21, 1941, and trained at Camp Wheeler, Ga. In March of 1942 they were shipped from Ft. Dix, N. J., to Ireland and later to England. They also were together in one of the first North African invasion units.

The war department said they have been missing since Feb. 17.

Radio Manufacturers To Make Replacement Tubes

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 30—Just about enough radio tubes for replacement purposes to keep the nation's home receivers going is now indicated, the radio manufacturers' association reports.

Production already has been started by manufacturers pending completion of details of the war production board's replacement program. However, RMA adds that "limited facilities of tube manufacturers, because of war production, has curtailed the original goal of the project so that tubes will be restricted to about 117 types, meeting about 90 per cent of the estimated public replacement needs."

MARKWITH REPORTS OHIO HEALTH GOOD

No Epidemics and Contagious Disease Cases Low.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 30 — Ohio is protecting its health as the commonwealth hums with wartime production, State Health Director R. H. Markwith said today.

"Despite population congestion in industrial centers," he said, "we haven't a local epidemic of any kind. The alertness of local health departments are responsible."

This was Ohio's report for the week ended March 27: diphtheria 2, influenza 16, measles 634, meningitis 7, poliomyelitis 1, scarlet fever 249, smallpox 1, typhoid fever 2 and whooping cough 167.

"There is a seasonal increase in the incidence of diseases in the spring," Dr. Markwith said. "Fortunately, most of the reported cases are mild. By and large, our health chart is gratifying."

There is an increase in meningitis with 25 cases to date in March, but the director said this is a seasonal gain.

Ohio had 60 cases of meningitis in 1942 and 40 in 1941, compared to an all-time high of 450 in 1935.

Pitfalls of Love

By ADELE GARRISON

I WENT to my father's side with a very good notion of what he meant to say to me.

"Get Mary alone as soon as possible," he said, "and tell her to be ready, at any time after 8 o'clock this morning, to stage that accident. Tell her to pass the word along to Noel.

"But the elder Veritzelle must not be notified until after everything has been made plausible. I'll have Dr. Twichell close at hand, so he'll lose no time getting there."

He spoke rapidly and insistently, finishing with a sharp "You understand everything that has to be done?"

"I am sure I do, Father," I said, then with a chuckling note in his voice he added, "When you get a chance, congratulate Mary on her performance."

"You should have seen the whole performance," I murmured with a smile.

"Sorry, Georges," my father now said, "but we must go now."

"All ready, sir," the fugitive young King of Trees replied, and I smothered a smile at that "sir," which Georges probably had never spoken except to his father and other royal personages.

Now he took Olina's hands in his and kissed them lingeringly, then turned to my father, after an impressive bow to Olga. As he followed my father out, Philip Veritzen turned to the rest of us.

Mary Still Acting

"Sit down, all of you," he said. "The guest of honor has gone, but the evening is yet young."

"But I'm not, any longer, Daddy dear," Mary said perly. "I'm keeping up our role, though Georges had gone.

"Old age is creeping on me," she went on. "I can't stand it any more. Remember, we had an early rehearsal to let John Hayes go through Steve's role for tonight, and I'm simply dead from the back up—and down. So I'm going to beg off. You won't mind, Mother dear, if Noel and I run along, will you?"

Her voice subtly changed as she addressed Olga, whom I know she reverence and love, and for a second all trace of her melodramatic role was gone.

"Of course not, my dear," Olga answered. "But do come up to see me as soon as you are rested tomorrow."

"You know I'll do that," Mary answered, with no hint in face or manner that it would be many days before her pretended accident would permit her to go anywhere outside her own apartment. Then she linked her arm into her husband's with a touch of bravado, again acting a role.

"Come on, Noel," she said. "You look exactly as if you were going to beat me up, and it wouldn't be nice to haul out your strap here."

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

The anti-Tank mine is an ingenious device which helped considerably in the Battle for Africa. Planted in the desert sands where the enemy is expected to pass, it needs only to be rocked minutely by truck wheel, tank tread or even footstep to explode devastatingly.

In our global war we need thousands of anti-tank mines to combat the cunning of Jap and Hun. Your purchase of War Bonds, increased with your increased income, will help pay for them. You can do your bit for your son, father, brother or neighbor's son with your War Bond purchases. "You Have Done Your Bit. Now Do Your Best."

Home Doctoring

THE SHORTAGE of doctors has pushed the sale of books which advise the family about medical matters. I see that The Home Medical Adviser, edited by Dr. Morris Fishbein, has jumped greatly in sales. This is all to the good because this is a safe book.

There are, however, all varieties of books of this sort on the market, some of which are not so good. There are four kinds of "home doctor" books or "home doctor" articles: good, bad, indifferent and dangerous. I ought to know something about it because I have to write an article of this kind every weekday. Every once in a blue moon I write a good article; mostly they are indifferent or bad, but I try not to make them dangerous.

People frequently tell me that they read my articles religiously. The best advice I can give them is what Dr. Oliver Wendell Holmes said to a woman who liked to read doctor articles: "Look out, some day you will die of a misprint."

There is some good advice in the January number of "Hygeia," the health magazine of the American Medical Association, about these books.

Suspect broad generalities. It is impossible to make a statement which will cover every individual instance of illness. The doctor, during his school days of training, spends most of his time learning to individualize. Oversimplification of health rules usually means that the rules are worthless.

Be critical of instructions. Medical authors who tell you what medicine or treatment to take with out any qualifications are likely to get you into trouble. Even if you are advised on what to eat—which is fairly safe—you should check with your doctor.

Never accept a medical writer's diagnosis. The conservative and ethical writer on health will attempt to give instructions about the working of the body, but when he leads you to attempt self-diagnosis and self-treatment, look out.

A recent experience of mine illustrates the danger of this tendency on the part of the public. I wrote an article in which I mentioned the trace elements in foods. This was done simply to announce research and advances in medicine. Among these trace elements were zinc and cobalt.

I received several letters from people who wanted to know what foods contained zinc and cobalt and how much zinc they should take under certain circumstances. As I explained, it is impossible for anybody to eat a balanced diet without getting some zinc and cobalt, but only small amount are necessary for human nutrition.

People who are persuaded by this knowledge to add to the amount of zinc or cobalt that they normally have in their diet are in danger of getting metallic poisoning.
